Consolidation Seen Essential to Planning of Princeton's Future

Consolidation of Borough and Township is essential in planning for the future of the Princeton community, Township Mayor Jay Bleiman declared in an interview this week. He urged Princetonians concerned about consolidation to form a new citizens committee.

"A citizens organization could compel both municipal governments to come up with the essential facts," he explained. "It could say, in effect, 'You're sitting on your tail — let's move!'"

Across that line in the Borough, Mayor Robert W. Cawley says he would like to see things move, too, but . . .

"One of my objectives for the year is to get a consolidation study under way," he said in reply to Mayor Bleiman, "but frankly it won't happen unless my colleagues on Council agree and we haven't had a chance to discuss it."

"I haven't decided what action I would take if Council didn't support a study," the mayor added, "but I do believe it is in the long-range interests of the community and worth trying to achieve."

Finances and a deep-seated, psychological "we-they" feeling are the two obstacles to combining the two Princetons into a single entity.

Mayor Bleiman acknowledges the strong, loyal ties to community that exist, particularly in the Borough. But he is baffled by fears of Borough residents that came to light last fall during the election campaign.

"They said they were afraid of being engulfed — but we're a single town!" he puzzles. "They feel they are a strong heterogeneous community, whereas the Township is more single-class. I find it hard to sort this out . . ."

Last September, a fiscal study by University graduate student William A. Fischel, prepared at $3,500 cost for both Princetons, presented figures showing that between 1977 and 1978 — only two to five years from now — tax rates of Borough and Township will be only 1¢ apart.

According to the study, the absolute difference in equalized tax rates was only 2¢ in 1972, having dropped to that point from 6¢ in 1965. The 1973 tax rate of $4.16 for the Borough and $4.17 for the Township looks to be 99¢ apart, but officials emphasize that these are not equalized tax rates using Mercer County tables. Borough and Township — and other towns — don't levy on the basis of equalized rateables, but on the basis of what the local assessor says is the local valuation.)

With the idea of helping consolidating communities, State Senator William E. Schluter introduced a bill last December that would allow the state to step in and, assuming state money happened to be lying around, close that tax gap.

"If there were a difference in the tax rate between the two communities," Senator Schluter explains, "you'd project what the taxes would be for the community that had the higher rate, if no consolidation had taken place. The

Fog Joins Freeze in Housing Picture Here

In Princeton these days, it's hard to tell which housing project has been frozen, which one thawed and which government did what to which project.

This week, a private and a semi-public developer both learned that their projects will probably be frozen indefinitely by last week's state ban on sewer connections in Princeton.

The Division of Water Resources of the Department of Environmental Protection promulgated the ban. On Monday, Donald Harney, Sanitary Engineer for Princeton's Sewer Operating Committee, was informed by the state that a project must have all its approvals, including building permits, before it can tie into a sewer.

The new edict apparently affects Princeton Community Housing's 240 middle-income units on Terhune Road (no building permits at all so far), and Queenston Commons' condominium apartments on Harrison Street. Queenston has nine building permits for 3 of its units—less than half the 76 eventual apartments—and will probably have to suspend construction. Nobody knows the effect on the home-owner who wants to remodel, building an extra bathroom.

Room for Appeal. The state has set up an appeal mechanism to its moratorium. The developer, or individual home-owner, would submit a written statement to the governing body, giving number of people, number of apartments and an estimate of the amount of sewage to be produced.

Then the governing body would convey this information either to the Sewer Operating Committee or the Engineer, who would forward it to Environmental Protection officials for judgment.

"Yedlin Freeze" May Thaw

Princeton Township's 100 units of public housing in the Yedlin Project may be thawed out of the Federal housing freeze after all.

An aide of Congressman Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen telephoned Princeton's two mayors this Tuesday to say that three "new, definitive instructions" should break the ice jam. The instructions will be forwarded within a week to Philip Sadler, area director, in Camden, for the Housing and Urban Development agency, the aide said.

Under the new ruling, a housing project can continue if the proposal has been submitted, the developer selected and the developer notified. All these have been done.

Asked whether community pressure had caused the apparent reversal, Borough Mayor Cawley said there were "no indications" in that direction, although the aide had told him, "We've been in there pitching."

The Division of Water Resources wants two things: elimination of infiltration in the sewer lines, and shoring up of the sewage treatment plant.

"We believe the plant is operating within its quality limits," Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley said again this week. "We plan to ask the state to make an extensive evaluation of the plant."

It would be wasteful, the mayor thinks, to remodel the plant when a regional sewer is not that far in the future.

Interim Agreement. Actual use of the sewer system by projects like PCH's or Queenston—after construction has been completed, is in the future—possibly a year away, the mayor pointed out. With this as a basis, Princeton might enter into an agreement with the state allowing construction to continue, the mayor suggested. Infiltration control is even now under way, he observed.

Within the next two weeks, Princeton will take some kind of action, the mayor promised. He predicted that "political" action might be taken, also, in the form of a letter to Governor William T. Cahill.

"It is ultimately the governor's job to weigh sociological and environmental questions against one another," the mayor commented. "After all, the governor is on record as favoring middle income housing like PCH's."

DIRECTOR QUESTIONED By Faculty at Institute. The Institute for Advanced Study, which has only recently signed a peace treaty with the state over lands for Battlefield Park, now finds itself in some internecine campus warfare.

A pair of articles in the New York Times late last week, revealed that a majority of the Institute's faculty—14 of 26 members—want an outside commission "to evaluate the stewardship" of Director Carl Kaysen.

The issue is the appointment to the faculty of Robert N. Bellah, professor of sociology at the University of California at Berkeley. A majority of the faculty voted against Dr. Bellah's appointment, criticizing his stature as a scholar, but Dr. Kaysen ignored the vote and announced Dr. Bellah's appointment anyway.

A committee of five trustees of the Institute is coming to Princeton on March 24 to talk over problems and, perhaps, clarify them. Harold F. Linder, chairman of the board of trustees, replied to the request for an outside commission to evaluate Dr. Kaysen by declaring that such a responsibility could not be delegated to an outside group.

"Over the years, at the Institute," Dr. Kaysen said in an interview this week, "it has been the policy to have only the views of the school, or department, involved in appointments, not the view of the whole facuky."

Social sciences is a new field at the Institute. Because of this, Dr. Kaysen explained, the whole faculty felt they should vote on the appointment. "Actually, the whole faculty is advisory only," he said.

FUND TO AID BROWN In Charges Against Police. A fund has been established to help meet legal expenses of Leonard Brown, acting director of the Princeton Youth Center, who has filed assault and battery charges against three New Jersey State Troopers.

Mr. Brown told a press conference Tuesday that State police still have not asked for and do not yet have his side of the incident that occurred shortly after midnight February 25 in a turnpike Howard Johnson's.

Mr. Brown told a press con- the story in a detailed statement released Tuesday, describing how an altercation with the restaurant staff over lack of servcie for Mr. Brown and his wife led the manager to call the State Police.

The statement relates that the assistant manager reassigned two employees who had been clearing a table for the Browns. Finally, the statement says, "I said, 'Why in hell can't I get some damn service in this place. . . . I want service now, and at that damn table.'

"The assistant manager said something back. I plucked his bow-tie off and threw it on the floor. He in turn dropped a plate on my foot."

The manager called the troopers, who arrived after the manager and Mr. Brown had settled the problem and the Browns were being served, Mr. Brown said.

He charged that troopers pummeled him in the face "at least 30 times" as he lay handcuffed on the floor of the patrol car. He also charges that he was not advised of his rights, as the law requires, and was not allowed to make a phone call until a friend—Borough Councilman Joseph Moore—appeared at the State Police station.

Troopers arrested Mr. Brown on a drunk and disorderly charge. Both that charge and Mr. Brown's counter charge of assault and battery are due for hearing April 5 in East Brunswick.

state would pick up the whole amount for the first year. The second year, the state would pay 75 percent of that same amount, then 50 percent, then 25 percent, down to zero by the fourth year.

Senator Schluter hopes to get the bill back in action when the legislature reconvenes March 19, but he considers that support for it in the senate is "diluted." "It will need discussion, a lot more dialogue around here," he comments.

Mayor Bleiman, still in the bookkeeping department, then turns to the question of cost sharing. Borough and Township do a lot more together than they did even in 1963. Cost for recreation, library, civil rights and planning board, for instance, are shared on a ratables formula: you turn to the county's equalized tax figures for the preceding year and add Borough and Township equalized tax figures together. Then you calculate the proportion each has of the total.

Right now, it's 65 percent Township, 35 percent Borough. This means the Township taxpayer pays two-thirds of the cost of recreation, civil rights, etc. (The library is slightly different, but still roughly the same proportion.)

This also helps explain why Township Committee may seem to be dragging its feet when it considers increasing the money allotted to ballfields or books. A big budget, like recreation, can precipitate an actual tax-point difference.

Non Partisan Volunteers. Representation on boards, of course, is still 50-50. As Mayor Bleiman observes, people who sit on these boards don't vote "Borough" or "Township."

So the feeling is beginning to grow that the Township does pay a disproportionate share, and the mayor says Committee plans a detailed study, on its own, of cost-sharing. One planned with the Borough, didn't materialize.

What makes the Township's mayor very restless indeed is the fat Borough purse with all that parking money inside. In its 1973 budget, the Borough projects an income of $165,000 in fines — chiefly traffic fines — and $166,000 from parking meters.

"That's about $335,000 gross income," says Mayor Bleiman, and it is income to which the Township does not have access, and which makes a nice impression on the Borough tax rate.

A Warning to Borough. "But I believe the implications are clear for a rising tax rate in the Borough," Mayor Bleiman warns. "They cannot add to their real base — as the Township can — although inflation could expand it." What the Borough lacks, of course, is land to grow on.

The fiscal report done by Mr. Fischel last year found that the trend, in the last few years, has been for the Borough to have a higher rate of increase than the Township. Local taxes especialy grew much more rapidly, on the average in the Borough than in the Township.

"My over riding concern is for the future," emphasizes Mayor Bleiman, "and I hope that Borough Council will see the importance of consolidation for the future. Nobody is saying costs will go down — but the quality of services might go up with the same costs."

Two crucial Regional Planning Board studies — housing and the Central Business District — involve the total community, the mayor observes. "It's the CBD of the community: you can't plan the CBD without planning the road networks that feed it and give it life, just as one example."

What Mayor Bleiman would like is a Consolidation Commission which would get the state to do the actual study. He says no study has ever gone "all the way — showing what a consolidated town would actually look like." (The last formal study was completed in 1965. It is known as the Dilley Report, for its chairman.)

What would a single engineering department look like? A single police department?

What indeed, would the new, single government look like? Mayor Bleiman thinks both Borough and Township have "an anachronistic government left over from the 19th century," and he thinks a much larger municipal staff is required.

"Every one of us loves Princeton and wants to preserve it," he concludes. "I think that united, we stand. Divided, going against, each other, we ARE going to fall."

Browns at a scholarship fund-raising dinner before the turnpike incident, will testify April 5 both as character witness and as a witness who had an opportunity to observe Mr. Brown before he appeared at the restaurant, said Joseph Stonaker, Mr. Brown's lawyer.

Mayor Cawley has already written to Mr. Brown's behalf to Governor William T. Cahill and has told the governor he expects an investigation. The Princeton Pastors' Association has also demanded an investigation (See Mailbox, page 18.) Mr. Stonaker said Tuesday that he did not know whether such an investigation had yet begun.

Those who wish to contribute to the fund are asked to make checks payable to "Len Brown Defense Fund." Checks should be mailed to the Princeton Youth Center.

Palmer Stadium Is N. Y. Giants' Field Goal

Does the Princeton community want the New York football Giants playing 13 games in Palmer Stadium over the next two years? A public meeting will be held at a date to be announced, to collect answers to that question.

It's a kind of double reverse into Princeton's backfield: the Giants will be out of Yankee Stadium this October, they have already approached Yale about the Bowl, and they must find a stadium before their future home in Hackensack is completed. Target date for the Hackensack opening is the 1975 season.

This Tuesday, representatives of the Giants met with Paul B. Firstenberg, financial vice-president of Princeton University, and representatives of both Borough and Township in a little downfield blocking. Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley said, before the meeting, that both his government and the Township's feel that the request to use Palmer Stadium should come from someone in the state, as well as from the Giants, in view of the state's involvement with the Hackensack development.

Many factors must be considered, Mr. Firstenberg said Tuesday in a formal statement.

How Does Town Feel? The University's willingness to give serious consideration will depend heavily upon the attitude of the community, of which it is a part. It would be up to the Giants to make their own case to the community."

The University is also sensitive about its relations with Yale, where Giant scouts have been. "Princeton and Yale have been and are in communication . . . and have determined to avoid any conflict," Mr. Firstenberg added.

From comments of public officials, it looks as though the Giants may have to bust a few wedges to get Palmer Stadium. Mayor Cawley, at his Tuesday press conference, said that having the Giants here "would involve some inconvenience to Borough residents. That's why we plan a public meeting."

Games would be played on Sundays, frequently on the day after a University home game. Football fans would be parking along Princeton streets, perhaps tossing trash into streets and onto lawns. Heavy traffic would come at about the hour Princeton's church services are over.

"The traffic problem would be substantial," Mayor Cawley observed.

Police representatives from both Borough and Township attended Tuesday's meeting. Mayor Cawley, referring to the annual Giants - Eagles Jaycee Football Classic held in Palmer Stadium, said he assumed the Giants would pay police overtime because the Jaycees always do.

Another question is one of community attendance. Yankee Stadium holds about 60,000. Palmer Stadium only around 47,000. Would there be any room, Mayor Cawley wondered, for Princeton fans to see a game after all the Giants subscribers had filed in?

The amount of money the Giants would pay the University in rental hasn't been revealed and is presumably under discussion. The Giants reportedly offered Yale $1 million.

SPRING WILL BE BUSY

For School Board. The school board set a brevity record Tuesday night, adjourning after less than an hour. But it set several items on the shelf for discussion in late March and early April.

Starting in April, announced Superintendent Philip E. McPherson, the future of Princeton High will be "an active public item" as the consultants move toward a final report on what to do with that building. May and June meetings will also be devoted to high school discussions, Dr. McPherson said.

This Thursday, the dormant Long Range (Selden) Planning Committee is coming out of retirement to meet with the PHS consultants.

The tenure committee has completed its report, announced George Fitzgerald, and it will probably be discussed at the March 27 board meeting. Copies are available for the community in all schools.

The community is invited to submit nominations for membership on the new Advisory Council on Human Relations. Names may be listed with board secretary William Evans, Stony Brook Building.

Student Problems on Agenda. Also at the late March meeting, Dr. McPherson will report on high school planning related to student behavior problems. A new class for suspended students is about to start and a new program — "PREP" — for students with serious behavior problems, is in preparation.

The board unanimously agreed to table for additional information a proposal to convert driver education staffing from after school jobs for which teachers get extra pay, to a pair of full time teaching positions.

Board committees were appointed as follows, chairman named first.

Policy: Gail Pietrinferno, Joan Doig

Finance: Winthrop Pike, Judith Geus

Planning: George Fitzgerald, Gail Pietrinferno, Judith Geus, Winthrop Pike

Negotiations with staff: Philip Cruickshank, Joan Doig

Legislation: Hannah Fox

Human Relations: Eric Craig, Joan Doig, Gail Pietrinferno

Intergovernmental Drug Committee: George Fitzgerald

Advisory Committee on County Vocational School: Eric Craig

When Mrs. Edna Hunter asked, from the audience, why there was no committee on education, Dr. McPherson suggested that the board was a committee of the whole on education, as well as on planning.

POLICE ARREST 19

Six For Robbery. Borough police made 19 arrests last week, Chief Michael Carnevale reported, six of which were in connection with robberies that have been plaguing the Witherspoon - John Street area.

Arrested last week were John Miller, 20, 7 Lytle Street, and Greg Bullock, 21, 102 1/2 Leigh Avenue. Each is in Mercer County Jail in lieu of $3,000 bail, awaiting a Borough court hearing that was scheduled for this Wednesday afternoon.

Both have been charged with robbery in connection with a $15 holdup of two men on Witherspoon Street February 26. Bullock was picked up at the corner of Witherspoon and Lytle streets by Pfl. Gerald Patterson; Miller on a warrant at headquarters by Pfl. Bernard Lenhardt.

Two other 17-year-old Borough juveniles were also arrested for their alleged role in the same robbery. One was arrsted on Franklin Avenue by Det. Anthony Runfone, the other on Green Street by Det. Douglas Watson, Borough juvenile officer. They will be processed by juvenile authorities.

Chief Carnevale reported that a second warrant against

Township to Hear Nursery School Land Plea

The ordinance authorizing lease of public lands to the Princeton Nursery School was introduced Monday night by Township Committee, but Committeeman Abbot Low Moffat warned that the introduction was simply to get the question out in the air so that public hearing can be held He didn't promise Committee would pass it

Albridge C Smith III, attorney for the school, said he would hold off comment until the public hearing. That will be held at a specially-scheduled Township Committee meting Monday, March 26, at 8 p m

The Nursery School wants to lease a portion of Township-owned land for a new building The land is part of the playing fields used by the Recreation Commission.

Originally, the School was to get the land in a swap arrangement whereby the Recreation Commission would be given use of the Borough Hall gym. That has apparently fallen through, and recreation officials protest that they are being asked to give up land without getting anything in return.

Mayor Jay Bleiman expressed the "concern and sympathy" of Committee over the mugging attack last week on Edward Basledo, a Township employee "I hope the Borough (police apprehend the perpetrator," the mayor said.

County Plans Protested. Four residents of Rosedale Road and Rosedale Lane have written to Committee in alarm over publication of Mercer County plans to widen Rosedale to four lanes Engineer Joseph Hodak pointed out that the project hasn't yet reached the stage of Freeholder approval and is some years in the future

Queried by Mayor Bleiman about ways to keep informed of county activities, Attorney Gordon Griffin said it would be "bureaucratic courtesy" on the county's part to tell municipalities its plans, but that no law requires the county to do so

Alarms. In a second long-by session of close questioning, Committee picked up additional information Monday nite about the workings of burglar alarms The first quizzing session occurred last week when Committee asked subscribers to Automatic Communications, Inc. about their contracts with the firm. A. C. wants Township permission to increase rates for its original subscribers from $36 to $51 a year.

This time, a spokesman for Automatic Communications appeared before Committee He presented detailed cost sheets to back up his request, and told Committee the new rate if granted, would hold through 1978.

Responding to a comment that his firm was like a public utilities, which are subject to governmental regulation, the spokesman said, "I wish I could receive a return before taxes like Bell Tel" Committee tabled the request for more study.

Also tabled was the $31,000 municipal garbage contract, up for renewal. The lone bidder was the incumbent, Jule Huntley who presented separate bids for each of the town's five municipal districts Committeeman Moffat questioned whether five separate bidders might not give the town a better break financially.

Again playing the blue chips, Committee announced that $200,000 in certificates of demand due March 5, had been reinvested: half at 6 3/8 per cent for 30 days, half at 6 1/2 per cent at 60 days, both with Franklin State Bank These are capital funds.

Bullock for his arrest had been issued in conjunction with another robbery on February 26 of an elderly man on John Street near Clay The victim was not beaten but he lost $60. Two other arrests in the same case are pending, said the Chief.

Arrested on the street Thursday by Det. Ranlone and charged with armed robbery was Darryll Brooks, 18, 260 John Street He has been charged by Det. Thomas Michaud with taking a $100 check at gunpoint from two youths, age 14 and 15, behind the Youth Center February 19.

Brooks, in jail in lieu of $2,000 bail, was scheduled to appear in court here this Wednesday

Pot Party Pinch. Four juveniles, two from the Borough one from the Township and one from Rocky Hill, have been arrested and charged with the possession and use of marijuana

They were rounded up by Pfc. William Hunter after police received a 5:52 p.m. call Friday from the Princeton University security office that a pot party was going on in a room in Murray Dodge Hall

The four were later released to their parents, pending action by juvenile authorities Police gave their ages as 13, 14, 15 and 16.

David M. Hill, 26, of Texas Avenue Trenton, was arrested Friday by police who charged him with larceny and driving a car while on the revoked list.

Hill was seen removing a case of scotch and a case of gin from a truck making a delivery at Community Liquors on Witherspoon Street that morning by Pfc Gerald Patterson and storing them in a nearby row of garages. He was arrested when he returned later in his car to pick up the cases

Released by police in his own recognizance, Hill was scheduled to appear this Wednesday in court before Borough Judge Theodore T Tanis Jr

COMMUNITY SADDENED

By Teenage Knife Slaying. The tiny community of Pennington was shocked and saddened last week at the knife slaying of Pamela Ann Davis 16, who lived at 122 Ingleside Avenue in Hopewell Township just outside the mile square Pennington boundary

She was buried Saturday morning in Ewing Church Cemetery, following a service in First United Church of Pennington where she was a member A poem that Pam had written was read by the Rev. John P. Weid, as was another composed by members of the church's Methodist Youth Fellowship of which she had been an active participant

The church was filled with young people and adults paying their last respects to the attractive, blonde girl, who had planned to take advantage of her 6'2 height in pursuit of a modeling career She was a sophomore at Hopewell Valley Central High School

Pam is survived by her mother Mrs Carol E Davis, a grade school teacher in Ewing Township and her father, Robert Davis, who had been separated for several years from his wife.

Also surviving are three brothers at home, Charles Paul and Keith; a sister Mrs Beth Pickard of Cranbury, and her grandparents.

Police have charged Harry J Lindenthal Jr., 21, of Titusville with the murder According to State Police, Lindenthal walked into the Hopewell Township barracks last Tuesday

Spring is on the way!

Less than two weeks, the Man says, reporting that the sun now rises about 6:20 and sets around 6 p.m. In short, the vernal equinox is just over the horizon.

Cloudy skies, occasional sunshine, possible drizzle, unusually mild temperatures — does're all in the weather picture for the next few days. The weekend, hopefully, may be a bit drier but as long as the thermometer is higher than usual, the humidity may be, too

Many disease microorganisms are killed, luckily enough, by the natural environment. For example, drying kills many sorts of organisms. Sunlight is effective in killing bacteria. Certain chemicals are effective in our atmosphere for the killing of organisms. Man also can produce many germ killing environments. He sometimes uses ultraviolet rays to kill germs. Antibiotics are another method used for ridding ourselves of harmful bacteria.

Borough to Enforce Law against Hitchhiking

Borough police intend to eliminate all hitchhiking in the Borough.

Chief Michael Carnevale said Tuesday that the state law which says that no person shall stand in the highway for the purpose of soliciting a ride will be strictly enforced in the Borough. "Hitchhiking will be eliminated in this community," he said.

In the Township, Chief Frederick Porter said that he has no immediate plans for a similar ban but he "was looking into it, since it can be quite dangerous. Especially for young girls."

Chief Carnevale reported that the ban on hitchhiking was the result of a six month's study by his department.

For too long," he commented, "the problem has gone on unchecked."

Warning First. Initially, all offenders, he said, will be given a verbal warning by his officers. If they do not comply, they will be charged.

Juveniles will be brought to Borough headquarters and turned over to the juvenile officer. Those 18 or over and holders of a driver's license will be issued a traffic violations summons. Chief Carnevale said that he did not know what the fines would be.

State law prohibits hitchhiking within the right of way of a public highway. Those who think they can circumvent the law in the Borough by thumbing from the sidewalk are out of luck; in the Borough, sidewalks are part of the right of way.

"I've been bothered for some time by the permissiveness attached to hitchhiking," said Chief Carnevale. "It's a great way to get around but I don't think youngsters realize what they are letting themselves get into. I feel we have an obligation to protect them."

Prepared for Dissent. The chief acknowledged that the ban would be "very unpopular." Its success or failure, he said, would depend in large part on how well it was accepted by the community and parents.

Admitting that the ban had been promoted in part by by recent stories of coeds who have hitchhiked rides only to be found murdered later on Chief Carnevale said, "You read of sexual assaults, robbery, quite often murder. I feel we have a social, moral and legal responsibility to society, to unsuspecting, naive youngsters and to parents who don't want their kids to hitchhike.

"We've done a lot of research, a lot of soul searching on this. I think it will benefit a lot of people.

"It would be a severe blow to parents and police if a young, unsuspecting male or female were offered a ride in this community and subsequently criminally assaulted and murdered in another."

In addition, hitchhiking poses serious traffic safety problems. Youngsters standing in the highway or between parked cars create a physical danger to themselves when they thumb, Chief Carnevale said.

The problem is compounded when drivers make sudden stops in the roadway, resulting in rear end collisions. Chief Carnevale said that there have been a number of rear end accidents caused by drivers stopping for hitchhikers, some resulting in injury.

evening at 11:25 and told them he thought he had just killed a girl.

Two hours later, police found the body of Miss Davis in a jeep path off Hunter Road in Harbourton. She had been stabbed in the chest. Her hands had been tied behind her back with shoelaces.

Lindenthal is alleged to have picked up Miss Davis and Elizabeth Bennett, 14, of Search Avenue, Pennington, earlier that evening on Route 546 near their homes. After driving them to the Harbourton woods, he tied them both up and took Miss Davis into the woods where he allegedly stabbed her with a 16 inch knife. State police have since conducted an extensive search for the murder weapon which Lindenthal told them he threw into the Stony Run Aqueduct or along its bank. The knife has not been recovered.

The Bennett girl managed to escape and wandered around the woods for some two hours before knocking at the door of a Pleasant Valley Road home. She was admitted to Helene Fuld Hospital where she was treated for hysteria and bruises.

Lindenthal is being held without bail in Hunterdon County Jail in Flemington, waiting action by a grand jury.

SIX ARE FINED

In Borough Court. Six Princeton area residents were fined by Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. Monday in Borough traffic court.

Lynde Karin, 32, 40 Autumn Hill Road, was fined $16 for speeding and $15 as an unlicensed driver. For careless driving, Kevin Burdwood, 18, 156 N. Harrison Street, paid $15 and had his license revoked for 10 days.

Paying fines of $15 each were Georgia K. Bryson, 25, 123 Cranbury Road, Cranbury, red light; Gladys Mitchell, 68, 288 Witherspoon Street, failure to keep right; and Michael McLaughlin, 44, 117 Bayard Lane, improper turn. Irene Heisler, 46, 198 Kendall Road, Kendall Park, paid $12 for failing to yield.

WHAT ARE GOALS?

For School District. A committee of school and town people will be formed in West Windsor and Plainsboro to interview residents and gather information on educational goals. Formation of the new group was authorized at last week's school board meeting.

The 21 member committee will consist of 11 residents, three school board members, four teachers, four students, an administrator and a chairman. School board members will be non-voting.

Construction progress on the West Windsor Plainsboro high school is "fair," reported clerk of the works Walter Golden at the school board meeting last week.

The board approved change orders representing items that originally had to be eliminated so that the board could sign high school construction contracts within the limit of the original bond issue.

The later, supplementary bond issue of $1.1 provides enough money to put these items back in, explained former board president Robert Duncan, and the change orders reflect their reinstatement. Mr. Duncan reported that the board had exceeded the estimated general cost of the contrast by only one percent.

The growth of the school district was reflected in the quarterly report of Arthur C. Down Jr., principal of the Maurice

HOST FAMILIES SOUGHT

For Foreign Visitors. The Lawrence Chapter of the international organization, Operation Friendship, is seeking prospective hosts for young people coming from Scotland, Ireland, Sweden and Wales for three weeks in the latter part of this summer, as well as the names of high school age Americans who would like to spend three weeks abroad in one of these countries in the summer of 1974.

For several years, the Lawrence Chapter has participated in this international exchange of students during the summer months. Approximately two dozen young people with counselors travel abroad or spend time in Mercer County in alternate years, living in the homes of participants. Some group activities and trips are planned so the host family is responsible for relatively little entertainment.

The Lawrence committee of Operation Friendship, which has national headquarters in Massachusetts, raises money each alternate year to cover the expenses of visitors from abroad. When the youths travel, their only expenses involve transportation, passports and spending money, since their hosts and the committee provide for all other expenditures.

The age limits for traveling delegates is 15 through 21, with the majority of young people still in high school. Last summer, 20 delegates were in several locations in Scotland.

Originally organized through members of the Presbyterian Church, Operation Friendship places no religious restrictions on membership. It has provided experiences for international friendships at minimum expense but with careful supervision of homes and delegates.

Inquiries may be addressed to the secretary, Mrs. C. M. Zepp, 78 Irwin Place, Trenton, 08638. When sufficient interest is shown from a specific geographical area, a new chapter can be organized.

To raise funds for the group coming from abroad this summer, an oyster and ham dinner will be served at the Lawrence Presbyterian Church on Saturday, March 17, from 1:30 to 7:30. Buffet style. Donations for adults are $3, for children 6-12, $2, and for children 5 and under, $1. Tickets and information may be obtained by telephoning 883-9361 or 883-9156 in the late afternoon or evening.

DIRECTORY TO BE MAILED

To West Windsor Residents. A mimeographed directory of services and agencies available to West Windsor residents is being mailed to households in the community.

Prepared by the Princeton Area Council of Community Services, the directory was undertaken because residents in communities outside Princeton especially new residents often have little knowledge of the types of services available.

Adele Budd, former member of the Council's Youth Concerns Committee, and Ingrid Reed, Council member, compiled the directory which includes public and private health, welfare and social organizations. West Windsor residents who do not receive a copy may obtain one by calling Mrs. Budd, 799-2668, or Mrs. Reed, 452-2529.

Bicyclists Warned on Riding at Night

"An alarming number of bicyclists, particularly adults," reports Township Chief Frederick Porter, "are riding at night without lights and wearing dark clothing."

He urged all cyclists to equip their bikes with lights or reflectorized tape and wear light clothing. There are periods at night, even when a motorist has his lights on, when visibility is not good, Chief Porter added.

There are 16,000 bikes in the Borough and Township, the Chief reported, to give an idea of the scope of the problem. Many of the offenders ride on the Township's poorly lighted country roads, he said.

"If you have to ride at night, try to comply with all the rules and regulations pertaining to bicycle safety," Chief Porter concluded. "For your own safety, as well as the motorists."

AMNESTY OPPOSED

By 2 out of 3 Americans. Two out of every three Americans are opposed to any amnesty for Vietnam war draft dodgers and deserters. An identical 65 percent of the American people also opposed amnesty when asked the same question seven months ago, before the cease-fire.

This is the principal result of a national opinion survey among 1,036 respondents taken by the Opinion Research Corporation between February 13 and 15.

The public does not believe that all draft violators should be treated the same. Some 52 percent of the public believes there should be some differentiation made among those who went to jail to avoid the draft, those who left the country to avoid the draft, and those who deserted the service after being drafted.

Somewhat surprisingly, those people who believe there should be differential treatment favor even harsher measuresh against those who ran away to Canada and Sweden to avoid the draft than against those who deserted the Armed Forces after enlistment. Of those who believ there should b diferential treatment, 42 percent favor tougher treatment of the runaways; while 37 percent favor more severe punishment of the deserters.

Lenient Treatment Seventy percent of the American people who believe there should be differential treatment say that the most lenient treatment should be reserved for those young men who refused induction in the Armed Forces but accepted the penalty and went to prison.

Only one American in four (25 percent) favors a general amnesty now that the war is over.

The results of this survey are based on telephone interviews conducted among a nationwide representative sample of persons 18 years of age and over. Below are the questions asked and the results:

"Some people have said that we should grant amnesty—i.e. we should forgive any violations of the law – to those who left the country or took other illegal action to avoid serving in the Armed Forces during the Vietnam war. Do you agree or disagree with the granting of amnesty to these people?"

	Feb. '73	July '72
Agree	25%	23%
Disagree	65%	65%
No Opinion	10%	12%

"Some young men went to prison to avoid the draft, others left the country to avoid the draft, others deserted the service after being drafted or enlisting and went to another country. Now that the war is over, do you think that they should all be treated the same or should they be treated differently?"

All Be Treated Same	40%
Treated Differently	52%
No Opinion	8%

"Who should be treated most severely — those who went to prison to avoid the draft, those who left the country to avoid the draft, or those who deserted after being drafted?"

	Those Who Say Differentiation Should Be Made among Draft Evaders (52% = 100%)
Those Who Went to Prison	2%

'Tempest' an Insubstantial Pageant? No, But...

The McCarter Theatre Company opened its spring season last Thursday evening with a literate and interesting and sometimes delightfully funny production of "The Tempest" by William Shakespeare.

Like most theatre - going residents of the Princeton region, your reporter feels so grateful for the very existence of this first-class, highly accessible theatre program that the task of reviewing its productions is not unlike that of a veterinarian assigned to inspect the teeth of gift horses.

To the question, "How was McCarter's 'Tempest'?" one is inclined to say, "Compared to what?" Where else within easy driving distance is this miraculous piece of theatre art being performed — and in a comfortable house, on a beautiful campus setting, with highly competent professional actors and an acute and responsive audience, at prices a fraction of those one would pay in New York?

And the program is in substantial measure a gift, for it would not be possible without financial support from the University (to the education of whose students it contributes mightily), several foundations, a government agency or two, and some private donors.

The Critic's Reward. Three cheers for McCarter! Can your reviewer, his voice choked with emotion, bring himself to say anything critical about this production of "The Tempest"? Uh, yes. As we have said before, half the point of attending fine productions is the fun of taking them apart afterward. All theatre is built on illusions and one pays the producer no compliment by failing to examine his decisions.

We urge readers to see this "Tempest." The play holds some of Shakespeare's sweetest and sharpest poetry; Louis Criss has directed it and the actors play it with great skill and respect (too much respect at times, as we will say later); David Jenkins' setting is sensibly unobtrusive for a play whose visual language creates more scenery than the mind can easily take in; the costumes by Elizabeth Covey are pleasing, and there is occasional music by the unusual team of Patsy Rogers and Mozart, and some near ballet by Goolah Abrahim.

If with all this the McCarter "Tempest" is less than consistently exciting and stimulating — and in our opinion it is — the fault lies with the author and with the company's decision to take the play more seriously than we think the author meant it to be taken. There are places in this play where the excitement sags; where Shakespeare's writing, as playwriting, falls off the high wire and gallomphs elephantinely around the sawdust ring; places where the hard needs help which in this production he doesn't get.

In its program note, McCarter tells us that this play "is more than airy; it is a rich and complex spectacle, often full of threat and danger." (That's "more" than airy?) We beg to suggest that what this play is full of, in addition to incomparable poetry, is some of Shakespeare's limpest, most unleavened exposition, growing from one of his most complicated and least rewarding plots.

Lengthy Exposition. Listen to the central character, Prospero, explaining to daughter Miranda (and us) how we happen to be on this enchanted isle. Prospero. "Sit down; For thou must now know farther . . . . ope thine ear. Be attentive." Fifty-five lines later, still explaining, he interrupts himself to say, "Dost thou attend me?" And dutiful Miranda replies, "Sir, most heedfully."

Ten lines later Prospero: "Thou attendst not!" Miranda: "O good sir, I do." Prospero: "I pray thee mark me." And 20 lines later, Prospero: "Dost thou hear?" And Miranda: "Your tale, sir, would cure deafness." And 40 lines later, Prospero: "Hear a little further. And then I'll bring thee to the present business . . . ." (At the end of this long scene he puts her to sleep with magic, but she was obviously ready to pass out from natural causes.)

We submit that this is not a man trying to write a play "full of threat and danger." Rather, it is a highly successful playwright ("The Tempest" was the last play he wrote by himself) who is sick to death of writing plots and the exposition they call for, and who feels he can afford to construct a ramshackle launching platform for some of the loveliest poetry ever put in the mouths of actors.

To say that Shakespeare did not know this and some later scenes were boring playwriting is to question the man's sensitiveness and sanity. He's clearly saying to future directors and actors, 'YOU get this stuff off the ground. I know it's slow and tired. YOU give it pace, and energy. I'm saving mine for the good parts.'" olas Kepros as Prospero and Francesca Norsa as Miranda are attractive and intelligent but they do not put into those roles the pace and energy Shakespeare left out, presumably because they did not get his message, or mis-read it. Daniel Seltzer (Chairman of the University's Committee on Theatre) is appealing as the honest old Gonzalo. Al Corbin is fine as the King, Karl Light as Antonio, Tom Brannum as Sebastian. But they seem unaware that they are playing unlively material; that what Shakespeare asks them for is not reverence but rescue!

Mark Metcalf (the "Crow" of "Tooth of Crime") is hardly to be blamed for failing to make Miranda's young lover Ferdinand interesting, since the author wrote him as a stock character; but he does fail. It is hard for actors to put humor into characters when the author has left it out, but Shakespeare was too worldly to have wanted these square lovers played so squarely.

Further determined not to make this production too "airy", McCarter has cast well - set - up young Dwight Schultz as Ariel, dressed him all in black and had his hair styled by Dr. Frankenstein. Schultz is a good actor with a pleasing voice and he does justice to the poetry and songs, but seems of too, too solid flesh for Ariel.

Clarence Felder in birthday suit and green g string looks fresh from heavyweight wrestling but somehow seems lighter and more ariel than Ariel. He is extremely good and funny, and his scenes with jester Trinculo (Edward Zang) and butler Stephano (I. M. Robson, a notable newcomer to McCarter) are worth the price of admission.

Did budget or anti-airiness dictate the omission of Iris, Ceres, Juno, and "Nymphs"? We missed the busty goddesses' Ziegfeld-like production number too much to appreciate their faces magic-lanterned on a screen and their lines intoned from offstage. It reminded us that the two latest McCarter productions have had but one female character each.

This fine production sent us reeling back to the text, our head full of poetry and questions. How churlish to ask for anything more.

—William McCleery

NEXT: "LOOT"

At McCarter, Next Thursday, McCarter's repertory company will open the second in its spring series of plays. It's "Loot," the corrosive comedy by Joe Orton, scheduled to play McCarter through March 25.

Jeanette Landis, British actress who made her American debut in the Royal Shakespeare's "Marat-Sade," will be featured at Fay, the kooky resident nurse. Donald Warfield, Jess Richards, James Gallery, MacIntyre Dixon, Julian Lopez-Morillas and Judy Parton round out the cast.

AGATHA CHRISTIE

"Little Indians." Ten guests arrive on Indian Island, immediately vulnerable to Agatha Christie's busy and inventive pen. Her mystery classic, "Ten Little Indians" will open this Thursday on Theatre Intime's stage, curtain time 8:30, at Murray Theatre.

"Ten Little Indians" will repeat this Friday and Saturday, and next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Reservations may be made at 452 8181.

ute work dealing in surrealistic fashion with the abstract influences that shaped a man's life, will be the feature of the evening.

Animated films will be "What on Earth?" dealing with the take-over of the world by the automobile; "The Further Advance of Uncle Sam," and "The Box" which won the 1968 Oscar for animation.

Other titles are "Frogs" "The Sentinel" in which that decade is explored; "Arena" which examines the craze for professional "Microsecond," in which animation and live action are combined and "Orange," a brief film which is more than a animation peeling an orange. Tickets — $1 for adults, 75 cents for children — are on sale at Allen's, 134 Nassau Street, and at the Johnson Park school office.

In the lead roles will be Gloria Nouri of Princeton as Mole; Stuart Mindlin of Princeton as Badger; Ina R. Wilner of Cranbury as Rat and Don Williams of Trenton as Toad. Jack Rees of Pennington, a charter member of the Players and past president, will direct.

EVENING OF DANCE

Three New Works. Three new works, to music ranging from Bach to contemporary, will be danced in a special program this Saturday and Sunday at the Aparri School of Dance, 217 Nassau. The recitals will begin at 8 p.m. Admission is free.

The concerts will be given by an independent group of 12 dancers, working to choreography by Heidi Bunting, a teacher at Aparri and formerly demi-soloist with the Banff Festival Ballet Company.

The program will consist of a ballet to music by J. S. Bach, a multi-media work in the modern technique and a work composed to music by Peter Strode. A fourth presentation, "Moments from Shakespeare," is danced to music by Bela Bartok. It is presently in the repertory of three companies — the University of Oregon Repertory Dance Company, the Anchorage Ballet Company (Alaska) and the Chicago Opera Ballet Company.

"KISS ME KATE"

This Weekend at Stuart. Final rehearsals for the production of "Kiss Me Kate" are being held this week at Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart.

The Drama and Glee Clubs will present this musical version of Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew" this Friday at 8 p.m. and on Saturday at 2 and 8:00 p.m.

The production is under the supervision of Munroe Wade and Miss Elizabeth Mulligan. Tickets for all performances are available at the school or at The Princeton Gift Shop on Palmer Square.

HERE COMES ALICE

Princeton Inn Plans Play. The Princeton Inn College Theatre announces the production of "Alice in Wonderland" to be presented May 3, 4, 5, 10, 11 and 12 with special children's matinees May 6 and 13 at the Princeton Inn College.

The production will use an original adaption by Assistant Director Robin Dechart, based on Lewis Carroll's "Alice's Adventures Underground", "Alice in Wonderland", "Through the Looking Glass", and Martin Gardner's "The Annotated Alice". The director is Miss Elaine Ober.

AT PLAYHOUSE: Juliet Mills is cast opposite Jack Lemmon in "Avanti," the comedy currently at the Playhouse.

The production will be geared for both children and adults, featuring specific characters and scenes rather than following any formal sequence.

Technical and production staff positions are still available. Inquiries may be directed to Richard Johnson at the Princeton Inn College. Tickets will be available beginning April 1.

PLAYHOUSE

Avanti! (now playing) Based on a Broadway comedy by Samuel Taylor from the 1967-68 season, "Avanti!" is a sort of boy-meets-girl-in-the cemetery comedy. Which means it takes a long while for the comedy to develop.

Jack Lemmon is a middle aged, mean mouthed American who interrupts his golf game to fly to the island of Ischia to claim the body of his father. The old tycoon was getting away from it all with a longtime lady friend and he was suddenly killed in a car accident.

Arriving on Ischia at the same time is a drab English woman, Juliet Mills, coming to reclaim her mother's body. There are mix-ups, inexplicable corpse - snatchings and more, but romance finally comes to these pale people.

A CENTURY-OLD VANITY CASE, antique dolls, and much more will be auctioned off this Saturday at Littlebrook School to benefit the scholarship program of the Central New Jersey Smith Club. Above, at right, Mrs. Kester Pierson, president, opens a valuable crystal and silver pin box from the vanity case, as the auction co-chairmen, Mrs. Lucius Wilmerding III and Mrs. Charles Gregory, look on. The box is engraved, "To Jane Piele from her affectionate brother William Tysan Kitshaw," and was made in Liverpool around 1843.

IT'S NEW To Us

25TH AUCTION SET

By Smith Club. This Saturday marks the silver anniversary of the annual auction sponsored by the Princeton area Smith College Club. The event is scheduled from 9 to 2 at the Littlebrook school, Magnolia Lane.

An extensive collection of dolls has been donated to the auction, as well as a windfall of silver. Mrs. Charles W. Gregory and Mrs. Lucius Wilmerding II are the 1973 co-chairmen. Funds raised support the Smith scholarship program.

The doll collection, dating back to the turn of the century, includes a choice Jumeau doll with natural hair, rag dolls, pairs of boy and girls; and some interesting pairs of wooden dolls from Germany. There are international sets in sizes ranging from two and one half to five and one half inches to. The collection includes fine accessories.

Since it is the silver anniversary, a special effort has been made to round up worthy items. Included are a long handled stuffing spoon by Hester Bateman, an English silversmith of the latter part of the 18th Century. There is a large tray, and a good collection of candlesticks.

Auctioneer John Pinela of Princeton Galleries, Hamilton Square, will rap the gavel for a great variety of antiques: a Derry china oval platter, with two matching, hand - painted plates, a sugar bowl cover of Lowestoft, a Sheffield creamer, Hitchcock chairs, antique buttons; a 75 year old Japanese export china lamp and a spool bed, double size.

Mrs. Peter G. Cook of Kingston is in charge of collecting donations of antiques.

The Smith auction also has a baked goods table, with Mrs J. B. Greene in charge. A feature is the Hidden Valley Ranch salad dressing, as well as take home casseroles made from gourmet recipes. Pecans, cakes and pies will be available as well.

The famous shrimp salad sandwiches will be on sale, and also ham and turkey sandwiches, beverages, and home baked desserts. Mrs. Frederick E. Blum is chairman.

At 3 p.m., the drawing for the raffle tickets will be held. Winner chooses a $500 vacation for two or a color television set. Mrs. Thomas B. Hartman and her committee will be selling tickets right up to the last possible minute.

The annual auction has raised more than $71,000 since 1949 for scholarships at Smith. Miss Florence Snow mans the information booth at the auction, offering information on scholarship aid to girls from the central New Jersey area. Mrs. Jack H. Joyce of Somerset is available by phone (201 297-2941).

Assisting at this year's auction are Mrs. L. R. Goodyear; Mrs. Bernard Goldstein, Mrs. Edmund Beckwith Jr., Mrs. Phillips B. vanDusen, Mrs. Richard H. Sly, Mrs. Kester H. Pierson, Mrs. Howard Cressman and Mrs. R. Gerald Mould.

If you have a donation, Mrs. Sly (921-9313) will arrange to transport it to the auction.

JUST SWEET TALKING

At Polly's. Walk in the door at Polly's Fine Candies, Palmer Square, and you realize that there are a lot of people in this world who deserve a beautiful box of candy, especially with Easter coming on.

The display at Polly's is beautiful — and unexpected. "Two or three people have told me I'm the only one in captivity to have real, sure-enough butter mints," Mrs. Polly Way Lyons told us. The mints are the old fashioned kind, as buttery as Mrs. Lyons' Carolina drawl, and packed in a pretty, round tin ($1.25).

For Easter chocolate bunnies standing, sitting, coated, foiled, hollow, solid, large and small. Quite a choice! Keep an eye out for Astro Bunny. He's a generous size ($1.50).

Cocoanut eggs, beautifully decorated, vie with a new entry: Italian chocolate eggs, dipped in colored icings, and then exquisitely hand decorated.

For the kids, chocolate eggs in plastic cups, or in ceramic cups which can be used during the rest of the year at breakfast time. To decorate a basket, long - lashed chicks made of some very fluffy stuff — and also furry rabbits and lambs.

Acorns are back — the almond paste confection with a chocolate half on the outside. Also imported rumb alls — chocolate covered and very hard to get. Peanut crisp straws — breakup chocolate in dark and in light chocolate (also in dietetic chocolate) — peacock eggs, jelly bird eggs — both so merrily wrapped in colored foil for Easter baskets.

Polly's fine mix comes ready to wrap up — an enrancing blend of caramels, divinity, fudge, crystalized dates, pecans . . . ($2) Nearby is a little girl's gift, a candy "purse" filled with lolly pops.

The mints always entrance us — Polly's is the only place around where you'll find the small green mints from Belgium. Other offerings are Finnish mints, Danish lentils and "misty" mints of white chocolate.

For a gift box, there is a great range of offerings from Old Dominion, Perugina, Droste, Nancy Bee's candy in clothes non-chocolate for those who can't have real chocolate. And Old Dominion has among its special packs, one that is made up entirely of soft-center candies — which is a much appreciated gift at the nursing homes. Prices for the prepacked boxes go from about $2.25 to around $12.

Mrs. Lyons is a skillful gift wrapper and you'll be doing yourself a favor if you give her time to really twirl the bows. Her rapport with the post office is such that you can give her your order now and she will not mail it until exactly the right time for it to be received for Easter. April 1 is the last day to get under the wire.

GARDEN

Fellini's Roma (now playing). This is Rome as Fellini sees it, flamboyantly, strutt-ingly. There are glimpses of the Coliseum, but the spectacle presented isn't to be found in any guidebook.

It covers about 40 years, from his first impressions as a village schoolboy, through Mussolini, up to the present. The first hour is engaging. When the film jumps to the present, we are watching the making of a film about how Rome would look to a traveler today. Permissive youths loll on the Spanish Steps, a Fellinian parade of grotesque women, the constant hurling of insults, a dead cat at an amateur hoofer, a fashion show for a church, a gathering of skeletons . . . So it goes. It's as though Fellini himself is burning out.

PRINCE

Shamus (now playing) Burt Reynolds and Dyan Cannon in a rather leisurely who dunnit.

Stimulated by a hip contemporary score by Jerry Goldsmith, "Shamus" traces the adventures of a superstod private eye named McCoy from his profitable rendezvous with a girl friend to the chilly office of a gangland kingpin who hires him to find a collection of diamonds missing from the apartment of a man who was roasted alive at the film's beginning.

Before McCoy's work is done, he has run-ins with Alexis (Dyan Cannon), the sexy sister of an ex-sports figure, with toughs who beat him up; with a hardnosed army colonel, and with the gangland henchmen. The plot gets lost sometimes in the violent and sensual scenes to give Reynolds ample opportunity to demonstrate his athletic ability. New York City backgrounds and realistically portrayed gangster, pool hall and barroom characters are great.

A lot of banks tell you about their special hours. But far too often those hours refer only to an outside teller facility. Which usually means you're very limited in the type of transaction you can conduct.

Not so at New Jersey National Bank of Princeton. When we're open for business, we mean business. Look at those hours of ours—when you can do all your banking—at any time.

Serious Problem at Merwick.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is a copy of my letter of January 25, 1973 to Mr. Ralph Mason, President, Princeton Medical Center Board of Trustees, concerning a most serious situation at Merwick, Princeton Medical Center's Extended Care Unit.

Since Mr. Mason himself has not given me the courtesy of a reply, I hope you will print this letter in its entirety. Perhaps if the matters involved are brought to the attention of the community Mr. Mason in turn will be led to draw to them his own attention as well.

MARY KERNEY LEVENSTEIN
144 South Main Street
Pennington

Another in a series of shocking events has occurred at Merwick, Princeton Medical Center's Extended Care Unit.

My 85 year-old grandmother spent several days in Merwick at Christmastime. On the afternoon she was moved to Princeton House, all her Christmas presents, including new nightgowns and other new clothing, were stolen.

Although they had been in her room that morning, the nurse at the desk said "they were not in the room at the time of the move, we have no further information."

In 1970 my mother spent several weeks at Merwick in a body cast while her broken leg healed. Personal effects disappeared from her room throughout her stay.

One night she was given extra sleeping pills. That night a large diamond was pried out of its setting in a ring on her finger which was too tight to be slipped off.

In 1973, as in 1970, the nursing staff's and management's attitudes were indifferent. Patients at Merwick are by and large helpless. That they should be preyed upon in this manner is scandalous and should be investigated immediately.

Keep Rosedale Two Lanes.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Last week TOWN TOPICS carried a report of a proposal to widen Rosedale Road to four lanes for its entire length. This is surely wrong. For a few minutes each work day morning and evening, Rosedale Road carries a fairly heavy flow of traffic. For the rest of the time it is a quiet and beautiful country road.

We do have a few other similarly beautiful roads, but surely we don't have any to spare! It is hardly believable that for the sake of a few seconds gain in time for a handful of commuters, and at a very considerable cost financially, ecologically and scenically this proposal is being seriously considered.

Rosedale Road does not connect two population centers. It connects one two lane road with another two lane road.

Admittedly there is much that could be done to improve Rosedale Road. The springs under the road that cause the continual renewal of pot holes could probably be diverted.

The sharp and obtrusive corner of Rosedale and Province Line could be rounded off. One might even want to add a short extra lane on Province Line so as to separate right turn traffic from left turn traffic there.

A bicycle trail along one side would be very useful. An extra foot of width could be added along each shoulder without too much harm. Better drainage could be provided to lessen the amount of ice that accumulates on the road in cold weather.

If this is not enough, there might even be provision made for two uphill lanes from the Stony Brook bridge to Fairway in one direction and from the bridge to Elm Road in the other direction. But to make the whole road four lanes would accomplish nothing but harm.

I like expressways. I gladly pay my tolls and use them whenever it is a reasonable part of my travel plans. But for over five years I have been driving most of the length of Rosedale Road an average of over fifteen times a week, winter and summer, night and day, and it still never fails to refresh and lift my spirits.

The trees close along both sides of that road are one of the glories of Princeton. To destroy those trees in order to uselessly spend county taxes (my money and yours) would be intolerable. There are so many useful ways our taxes might be spent. They must not be spent on a project that has negligible utility and that would cause irreparable damage.

Lessons from Beating.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

If the State Trooper who allegedly administered the beating to Mr. Brown Sunday morning (February 25) was attempting to "teach a lesson" to someone, then he may rest assured that he was totally successful.

The "lesson" has been studied and "learned" by Princeton's Black community and, particularly, by the Black youth who frequent the Princeton Youth Center.

Since youth obtain a considerable amount of their knowledge through the observation and example of their elders, one may be certain that many Black youths will take note and remember this vicious lesson in racism and violence which was "taught" by a professional in the field — a State Trooper.

The notoriety of the N. J. State Police has long been known, especially among Blacks, and now we have another item to add to numerous past events which display the wretched state of minds and conditions of some of our public "servants" and institutional structures.

Yes, from this despicable object lesson our youth will be able to pursue the process of Justice. And they may even have an opportunity to view the supposed legitimate channels of redress of our society in action. However, to truly begin that process State Police Supt. David Kelly should suspend the three marauding Troopers pending investigations. Of course, though given the circumstances, the only justified ultimate action would be expulsion from the force and legal action against the officers involved.

Finally the "lesson" learned will promote a deeper resolve in our community (and particularly in young Black minds) to rid our environment of the vile and contemptible actions caused by certain prejudiced elements in this society.

And efforts to eliminate these barbaric assaults will not be dampened by such "flame" efforts which reflect only warped minds and gross stupidity — even if they are as they well may be, supported by powerful agencies which are, ironically charged with promoting the welfare of the entire public.

Pastors' Association.

The John Witherspoon area ministers who represent the majority of the minorities of the Borough and Township of Princeton, would like to register their profound protest and deep concern of the New Jersey State Police's belligerent, racist actions and attitudes in making arrests of minorities in general, and specially, we refer to the Gestapo type tactics used in the arrest of Mr. Leonard Brown, acting director of the Princeton Youth Center of this Borough, this Sabbath past (February 25).

We find little use to allude to the character of this young, black, contributing citizen, or to esteem his worth in extra curricular involvements in this community as those persons from the considered elite of our most able government leadership to the people of the streets of this Borough and Township have already expressed this more eloquently than our words can command.

We applaud in praise with great frevor the intended actions and statement of Mayor Cawley of this Borough, an the statement of praise of this fine citizen and condemnation of such treatment in the arrest of Mr. Brown by the State Police made by Mayor Blieman of Princeton Township.

These are the days and times when we can again hear rolling from the lips of that silver tongued orator as he ofttimes quoted from the Book of Amos, 5:24: "Let justice roll down like waters, and righteousness like an ever flowing stream," but who now lays asleep from an assassin's bullet in a silent grave in the red clay hills of Georgia.

We've come to service notice that we have awakened in the past decade, and the dream is over; we've awakened out of sleep. We know where we are going, why we are going, though our faith is ofttimes impeded by stumbling blocks of racism, we "shall not be moved."

We shall stand. We are on the march for God, with God, and we believe most black ministers are willing to suffer the price of unbinding the shackles of the oppressed everywhere.

Meanness may impede, but meanness never inflicts a mortal wound; it only aggravates the temper to charge.

Be it known to these three public, tax paid servants, who feed the mouths of their children through equitable taxation of the poor, that we shall insist, inexhaustibly, within our every means, to see to it that Mr. Brown will receive unbiased justice, and that they, too, will receive the same.

The Executive Committee of the Princeton Pastor's Association is deeply troubled over the report of the incidents surrounding the arrest of Mr. Leonard Brown, acting director of the Princeton Youth Center, and urges a prompt, thorough and impartial investigation of all the circumstances involved so that the full facts may be speedily determined and full justice speedily be done.

AUDITIONS ANNOUNCED

By Opera Association. The Princeton Opera Association announced auditions for principals and chorus members for its production of "The Marriage of Figaro" and the spring session of the opera workshop.

Mozart's opera will be performed in July at Washington Crossing Park under the musical direction of Igor Chicagov and stage direction of Edward Earle.

The opera workshop will be held March 27 to May 10 at the Methodist Church, with auditions Saturday at the church. Interested singers may call (609) 466-2275 for further details and an audition time. Those interested in working on stage or in technical crews are also invited to contact the association.

CONCERT THIS FRIDAY

Bill Vanaver to Perform. Folksinger Bill Vanaver will appear in concert this Friday, at 8:15 p.m. at the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church in a concert sponsored by the Princeton Folk Music Society.

Hailed by many as one of the most talented versatile folk musicians around, Mr. Vanaver is adept with many instruments, including guitar, banjo, godolka (a Bulgarian fiddle), tamboura, and bouzouki.

Although he has been widely acclaimed for his knowledge and performance of the music of Eastern Europe and Russia, the majority of his programs and the majority of his repertoire is English-language material. He sings and plays ballads, blues, Woody Guthrie songs, music of the Appalachians and contemporary material as well as the Balkan, Eastern European and Russian numbers.

Admission for Bill Vanaver's concert is $2 general admission and $1.50 for students. There are no advance ticket sales.

For further information, contact Mrs. Caroline Moseley, 113 Linwood Circle, Princeton (609) 921-3588.

On April 6, the Princeton Folk Music Society will present Aly Bain and the Boys of the Lough, with the dance tunes, songs and ballads of Scotland and Ireland.

COLLEGE CHOIR TO SING

At Westminster. The Wheaton College Concert Choir conducted by Associate Professor Rex Hoek, will present a concert at Westminster Choir College on Wednesday, March 21, beginning at 8:30 p.m. The concert will be held in Bristol Chapel and is open to the public without charge.

The choir of 50, which is on its annual spring tour, represents Wheaton College in Illinois, a liberal arts college of 1800 undergraduates and 125 graduate students.

Because seating in Bristol Chapel is limited, tickets will be required and may be obtained by calling the Choir College (609) 921-7100).

CONCERT PLANNED HERE

By Middlebury Club. The Middlebury College Choir will give a concert of choral works from five centuries in The Lawrenceville School Chapel, Lawrenceville, on Wednesday, April 4 at 8 p.m.

The 60 voice choir under the direction of Professor Emory Fanning will be accompanied by a chamber orchestra. The spring tour will begin in Montpelier, Vermont continuing to Boston, New Haven, Lawrenceville, and Washington, D.C. and will cap the week in New York City at Town Hall on Saturday, April [illegible] 8:00 p.m.

Mr. Bruce McClellan wife of Lawrenceville Head Master is in charge of arrangements.

TWO RECITALS PLANNED

At Seminary. Princeton Theological Seminary will present work for trumpet and organ by Henry Purcell (1658-95) in two fifteen minute recital preceding the regular service in Miller Chapel on Friday, March 9 and Friday, March 16, at 9 a.m.

Michael B. Myers, a graduate of Washburn University and the Seminary, who is presently a candidate for the Ph.D. degree, will be trumpeter. The organist is Kenneth Williams, the Seminary's Director of Music.

The "Trumpet Sonata," originally written for trumpet and strings, shows Italian influence. It contains imitative passages in the ceremonious first movement and a sprightly three eighths canon in the third.

The March 16th presentation will comprise "Three Airs for Trumpet." The first two come from Purcell's last opera "Bonduca" (1695). They function as introductions to the arias "To Arms" and "Britons, Strike Home."

OTHER PAPERS will run your classified for half price or for nothing if they do not sell it. TOWN TOPICS, you'll find more ads and better results.

DRIVE IS A SUCCESS

For Negro College Fund. The New Jersey Campaign Committee of the United Negro Fund has announced that it went over its 1972 goal by receiving the record sum of $370,040.78. The report shows that the Princeton Area Committee collected $31,668.81 of this amount.

Mr. Henry N. Drewry, Chairman of the Princeton Area Committee, attributed the strong contributor's support to the increasing public awareness of the Fund's 40 member colleges and universities in their efforts to meet the educational needs of the more than 45,000 young men and women currently enrolled.

Mr. Drewry further stated that "More people gave more money to the United Negro College Fund in 1972 because they wanted to assure equality of educational opportunity to thousands of drprived students attending these schools."

ART
In Princeton

GUND COLLECTION

At Squibb Gallery. In a nation with a history as short as our own, there have been few chance for art and history to intertwine and, in mingling, assume a function in each other's role. An outstanding era, possibly the most romantic in our history, generated the most vigorous artistic reflection of itself and created a generation of artists who themselves became part of that history both by the nature of their involvement with their subject and their journalistic and reportorial role in informing the rest of the nation.

Western art depicts the great period of adventure, danger, suffering and conquest that made up the central portion of America's history. Cowboys, Indians, desperadoes, soldiers and the sweeping, virile growth of our nation has served as the subject for countless adventures, fictional and true, in almost all existing media.

One of the most vigorous records of this time is the art that was produced in the West during this era. The artists were a widely assorted crew.

Some were cowhands and western adventurers who found they had the talent to record. Others were eastern gentlemen, drawn by the glamour and excitement of the western way of life. Still another group were journalists who made their way west to record and illustrate for national publication.

In all cases, the art became the product of a profound relationship that developed between the artist and the life style surrounding him. The spirit of the west was captured in drawings, painting and sculpture that recorded forever the motion and power of this time.

The Gund collection on display at Squibb International Gallerie next week from Monday through Friday offers a wide variety of the best Western Art and reflects the presence of the artist and their deep personal involvement with their subject. Major painting, sculpture and sketches for publications, as well as one of the famous illustrated letter by Charles M. Russell, are included. The best known artists of the era are represented, including several works by Frederick S. Remington, Charles M. Russell, Albert Bierstadt, Alfred Jacob Miller and William R. Leigh.

The Gund Collection of Western Art is owned by the George Gund Museum of Western Art. A collection, it has been professionally designed to travel throughout the country and abroad for exhibit to the public. Most of the art was collected by the Museum's founder, the late George Gund of Cleveland, Ohio.

At The Artisan Batik, a method of applying colored design to fabric. The technique which originated in Java involve dying of fabric in varying colors and layers of color and controlling the direction and effect of the dye by selective application of wax or paraffin during the dying process.

The method, developed in primitive cultures was used primarily for coloring fabrics that were to be worn or used for ceremonial purpose. In recent years, batik work has become more sophisticated and more widely used as an expressive art medium, as well as for decorative purposes.

Most batik work is designed to be displayed as a hanging. Sara Eyestone, in her current display at the Artisan has taken batik one step further. The results, which are called batik paintings, are a combination of the traditional processes, combined with hand application of the dye to certain areas and the addition of linear work to highlight and outline form.

The results are a pleasing exhibition of color and design which is displayed on rectangular stretchers in the same manner as paintings done in other media. Still life, nature studies and figure studies all assume the dimension of a painting because of their approach and their method of display.

Glowing color and line complement each other well and retain the natural charm and beauty of the subjects, further heightened by the natural iridescence of the medium. Mrs. Eyestone's at her best in floral and house plants, displayed with great charm and obvious delight with the color and interaction of form.

At Gallery 100 Paintings by Nancy O'Connor fill the gallery with intense light and color. Miss O'Connor is primarily a colorist who uses still life as her major artistic [illegible] Flower form.

TROOPER OF THE PLAINS. One of the sculptures from the Gund Collection now on display at the Squibb Gallery is "Trooper of the Plains" by Frederic S. Remington. Copyrighted in 1909, the year of the artist's death, only a few were cast before the original models of his works were destroyed under provisions of his wife's will.

pots and pans, chairs and tables as well as other commonplace objects are portrayed in a most uncommon fashion. Using a vigorous, fragmented application of paint, the artist breaks her colors into scintillating areas of mixed tints and tones, relying on the eye to reunite her vibrant palette into its original forms.

The same impressionistic effects are maintained in the landscapes included in the display. Brilliant greens are tempered by their blue and yellow components. Contrasts and clashes are balanced for varying degrees of visual impact and carefully contribute the color statement and constructions developed in the still life.

A few sand castings are included in the exhibit and demonstrate that this artist is able to manipulate her forms as easily without the aid of color and produce effective results. The use of different granular materials provide subtle color variations and enable Mrs. O'Connor to compose and construct in a pleasing fashion.

At the Present Day Club. An extensive collection of paintings and some sand casting by Conrad Newman cover the walls of the Present Day Club. Competently painted local vistas dominate the show, with occasional seascapes, brightly color drawings for children as well as a few ventures into other media.

The style is essentially representational with very skillful use of paint creating likenesses that are rich in color and painterly surface. The artist has not added a perspective of his own to the subjects he portrays, but does manage to capture the spirit of the scene whether it is the gates of Nassau Hall, the Present Day Club or one of over a dozen local vistas.

Although one might wish for more of a personal statement in Mr. Newman's renditions of his subjects, he is to be commended for possibly the technically best and most tasteful renditions of the local scene, a frequently overdone and widely abused collection of subject matter.

Casciola Seeks New Shift to Get Tiger Football Out of Low Gear

Bob Casciola, who spent 14 years in the Ivy League as player and coach, came back to it last week when he was named to fill the vacancy at Princeton created by the resignation of Jake McCandless. His task is immediately apparent, and not much short of monumental: to lead Princeton out of the deepest football depression it has known since the years during World War II.

The new Tiger coach, a member of the Class of 1958 who earned All Ivy and All-East honors as a tackle on the team that won the Ivy title in his senior year, is fully aware that generating momentum after three seasons that saw the Orange and Black win just 9 of its 21 Ivy games is a rugged assignment. He had not, however, been on his feet more than ten minutes at the press conference marking announcement of his appointment before he declared firmly, "I think we have a shot at the title next fall."

Casciola bases his optimism on two counts he has a high estimate of the personnel with which he will be working next fall, and he feels that no one Ivy team will dominate the league in the years just ahead as Dartmouth and Yale have in the recent past. "I think the Ivies are moving toward greater balance than they have ever known," he said. "Dartmouth and Yale will be strong again, but Penn is changing rapidly for the better, Cornell can challenge anybody in the league and even Brown is on the verge of real progress. Faced with that kind of picture, I think we stand a good chance of getting back into the race."

Options the Key. Declining to comment on the problems Princeton football has known for the past three seasons, the new coach announced that he will guide the Tigers toward "option football." He preferred not to name a specific brand of attack (wishbone, veer offense, belly, or whatever) but indicated firmly that his quarterback will be taught to keep the opposing defense looking for a wide variety of possibilities.

Obviously, what Casciola will seek to develop is a running quarterback who can complement the threat of the primary ball carriers. Passes will be of the play action variety, with the straight drop back held at a minimum. It has not been since 1969 that the Tigers have had a quarterback who can guide an offense reminiscent of brighter days in Palmer Stadium, and Casciola's no. 1 problem is readily apparent months before pre-season practice begins.

Defense Remains Vital If an attack that returns Princeton to an average well above the skimpy 13.3 points per game it managed during last fall's 3-5-1 season is to be achieved, it will take time. The defense must buy that for the rebuilding Tigers, and Casciola is the first to know it.

When he left Princeton in 1966 to serve under Bob Blackman at Dartmouth, he was charged with the guidance of the defensive ends and linebackers, and when he moved on to Connecticut as an assistant with the understanding that he would step into the head coach's shoes, his first duty there was direction of the defensive platoon. During Casciola's three years at Hanover, the Green played .667 ball and tied for an Ivy title; in his first year as head coach at Connecticut, the team tied for the Yankee Conference championship, posting the UConn's best mark in a dozen years.

The Tigers' 17th coach in the 104-year history of the sport here has a heritage of being part of winning football at Princeton. As an undergraduate, and three-year letterman, he started on the team that won the unofficial Ivy title in 1955 and returned to the top again in '57. During that three-year span, the Tigers won 21 of their 27 games. Athletic Director Royce Flippin was fullback and captain of the 1955 team on which Casciola played.

He joined Dick Colman's staff, as a freshman assistant, the year he graduated and three years later was promoted to the varsity staff. While he coached at Princeton, the Orange and Black had a 34-11 won-lost record, including the undefeated team of 1964.

Flippin said at Saturday's press conference that Casciola was the eventual choice from among some 75 candidates who expressed an interest in the position. The search began almost immediately after McCandless's resignation on January 13, culminating several weeks before applicants for the Class of 1977 will decide on the college of their choice. By fortunate coincidence from Princeton's point of view, some 30 high school football players were among approximately 300 high school seniors visiting the campus last weekend, and it was something more than coincidental that the new Tiger coach had an opportunity to meet them.

Now the new regime has started here, with Casciola studying the appointment of at least two staff members to replace Bruce Tarbox, who Blairstown Out?

The likelihood now exists that the Blairstown training camp to which Princeton football teams have retreated each September for almost a quarter century will no longer be a part of the pre-season picture.

Coach Bob Casciola said Saturday that its accommodations for a maximum of 60 players work against his belief that possibly as many as 100 would like invitations from the coaching staff to report for practice. The possibility that 1973 drills will be held here is under study, he said.

There is also the chance that a revised academic calendar, calling for classes to start about September 1, may go into effect as early as 1974. Such a development would bring an end to the Blairstown encampment automatically.

Did you know there was once a man who, during one part of his life was a famous Hollywood actor and won an Academy Award—and in another part of his life was a boxer and fought the heavyweight champion of the world! . . . Do you have any idea who this was! . . . Remember movie star Victor McLaglen! . . . Most people don't know that in the early 1900s he was a top boxer and had a bout against Jack Johnson, heavyweight champion of the world. Then, McLaglen turned to acting and won the Academy Award for Best Actor in 1935 for his performance in "The Informer."

Ever wonder why a left-hand pitcher in baseball is called a "southpaw!" . . . Ball parks are usually laid out so the batter faces east to avoid a setting sun shining in his eyes . . . So, if center-field is east, the south end of ball parks parallels the first base line . . . A left-hand pitcher's throwing hand is on the first base side of the diamond. Thus, he's a "southpaw."

Princeton Quintet Wins Third Game by One Point to Finish 16-9

No one thinks Princeton's basketball team is a good one, and there will be widespread surprise in these parts if the NIT extends a bid to the 16-9, second-place Ivy Tigers. Eleven of their victories came in league play during a season when it was markedly a far weaker conference than at any time in the last dozen years.

But despite the numerous disappointments during the season, ranging from losses to such mediocre opposition as Penn State and Navy to the twin upsets at New Haven and Providence that cost the Ivy title, it is generally agreed that Princeton achieved far more with the material at hand than could logically be expected. Athletic Director Royce Flippin thinks Pete Carril should get some kind of "coach of the year" award.

Harvard Impressive. The discrepancy in ability between the Tigers and a given opponent was rarely outlined in more visible fashion than Saturday night as they roared from behind a 10-point deficit and hung on to defeat Harvard, 80 to 79. The talent-laden Crimson had balance, shooting accuracy and unbelievable rebounding all going for it—a combination that should have blown Princeton off the court. Late in the first half, it came very close to doing so.

The visitors put five men in double figures (three of them in the first 20 minutes), shot a fine 54 percent from the floor in each half, and grabbed 35 rebounds to Princeton's 21. In the first period, when Harvard was amassing 44 points to top all teams playing in Jadwin this season, its rebounding edge was an incredible 23 to 6.

For reasons that are better known at Cambridge than elsewhere, this veteran team of standout basketball players has never come close to realizing its potential. During a wobegone 14-12 season, its losses at home included one to Brown's young sophomore-dominated quintet, and a shocker (by 18 points) to a Columbia team that won only six other of its 25 games this winter.

A near total lack of team play on offense and an absence of defensive skills are on-the-court problems that have plagued the Crimson. To this, a general aura of player dissatisfaction may be a contributing factor; in any event, there are rumors that Coach Bob Harrison is on his way out for failure to produce more—much more—while the talented Class of 1973 has been at Harvard. Whoever is in charge next year will have nothing to work with compared to the last three seasons. four of Saturday's starting quintet have played their last game, and the current freshman crop is below .500 against rountine opposition.

Tigers in Trouble Early. Managing to hold a slim lead that never exceeded three points during the first nine minutes of the opening half, Princeton began to fade even before Andy Rimol was withdrawn for his third foul at the 12:17 mark. The Crimson moved in front at 21-20 and with 1:45 to go, was out in front by 10.

Total domination was, however, more than its free-wheeling personnel could achieve, and when a Harvard stall was twice broken up by the poised Tigers, they shaved the deficit at the half to 44-38. As matters turned out that brief rally was as decisive a factor as any in the final outcome.

Rimol stayed on the bench when play resumed but Bill Kapler, turning in his best performance of the year, was a big figure in the catch-up drive Princeton launched. Less than four minutes into the final half, Tim Van Blommesteyn stole an inbounds pass near the Harvard basket and laid the ball up to gain a 51-all tie.

The advantage then changed hands six times in as many minutes, but from a 60-59 margin with 11 minutes to go, Princeton seemed to draw out to a safe lead. Rimol returned to action, Kapler stayed in and the added height hurt Harvard rebounding.

By now the Tigers were themselves hitting on better than their shots, and as Harvard occasionally committed fouls in an attempt to gain possession, the Princeton lead grew to as much as eight points with the clock starting to run out. In the last two minutes, however, the generally capable ball-handling qualities of the Tigers came unglued in the face of an all-court press, and three baskets on Harvard steals within a space of 40 seconds very nearly proved decisive.

The last came with 12 seconds left. Harvard called a time-out, set up a play that was to feature either one of its big men under the basket or sharp-shooting guard Bob Fitzsimmons. But Manakas smothered Fitzsimmons, Kapler and Rimol closed out the interior opportunities and a last-second desperation jumper from the foul circle by junior Tony Jenkins bounced off the rim into Kapler's hands.

Manakas at 1099. Manakas closed out his Jadwin Gym career with one of his top performances, hitting on 10 of 16 and converting six for six at the foul line—four of them on 1-and-1 situations in the closing minutes. The Tiger captain ran his career total to 1099, seventh highest in Princeton history.

Junior Joe Vavricka had 12 and has joined Manakas and Rimol in double figures for the season. Kapler's 5-for-6 performance, plus a foul, for 11 points was invaluable and a tremendous credit to the big senior whose mobility was so lessened by his knee operation a year ago.

Friday night saw Princeton dominate Dartmouth with ease, breaking away from a 10-10 tie to lead by 37-28 at the half and by 69-50 in the final period before settling for an 84-69 triumph. The Green has the leagueleading point-producer in senior Jim Brown and a good guard in junior Bill Raynor, but it badly lacks height and may not be much better next year when Brown is no longer around.

The Tigers clicked at a 57 percent rate in both halves, and enjoyed a 33-25 edge in rebounds. Most of the time, figures like that belong to the winning team except for Princeton's unusual ability to overcome them against Harvard on Saturday.

Three by One Point

Princeton's basketball team achieved two records during its on-again, off-again season when it won three games by a single point.

In topping Harvard, 71-70 at Cambridge, and then here, 80-79, the Tigers became the first Orange and Black quintet to win two games in the same season from the same opponent by such a margin.

On February 16, Princeton edged Columbia, 51-50, on a foul shot after time had run out. No other Princeton team in the 72 years of basketball here has won three games in one year by one point.

Virtually overshadowed by comparison are two other contests that were decided by two points: Princeton 61, Florida State 59, and Yale 63, Princeton 61.

THE CELLAR AGAIN For Princeton Hockey. Losing its final two games last week, and its last eight in a row, Princeton's hockey team won four games and lost 19. It is the last place occupant of the Ivy League for the third straight season, a span that has seen it win three of 36 games.

For the record, the team's won-lost mark is 5-18, but on ice it defeated only Yale and Penn, plus a couple of Division II opponents St. Anselm's and Buffalo. On December 9, the Tigers lost to Boston University, 6-1, but the final result goes into the book as a forfeit one of 11 victories the Terriers were required to yield to their opponents after they were discovered to have been using a Canadian whose play-for-pay career in his own country made him ineligible here.

For 57 minutes last Wednesday, Princeton was in the thick of a good game with Penn, a great second period enabling it to erase 2-0 and 3-1 deficits and skate into the final round tied at 3-all. Goals by Walt Snickenberger (his eighth since returning to action 10 games earlier), Corky Powers and Ogden Hunnewell earned the deadlock.

The first 15 minutes of the final period produced neither a goal nor a penalty. Then, very quickly, the Tigers got two penalties, the Quakers got two goals, and it was a 5-3 final.

Steven Weiner and Powers followed each other off the ice at an interval of a minute and 15 seconds. Princeton survived Penn's 45-second 5-3 advantage in skaters, but shortly before Powers was due back, the visitors beat goalie Phil Robinson from point blank range on a stuff shot through his pads. After Robinson had been removed, Penn hit the open cage with nine seconds left.

At Hanover, Dartmouth had moved out to a 3-0 lead before Corky Powers scored late in the second period on a rebound off Walt Snickenberger's stick. Brad Richards and Brian McIntosh got the other Princeton goals.

So the season ended with the Tigers having looked in vain for the University's 500th victory in the sport during the last eight games. They did, however, pass the 600 mark in total defeats during the winter.

There are only four seniors on the squad (Co-Captain Ed Swift, one of the goalies, and forwards Paul McNamara and Bob and Wayne Bezan). A better than average freshman team (15-5) will more than replace this manpower loss, but hockey in Baker Rink will continue to have two major problems: a lack of confidence fostered by many losing years and the fact that whatever improvement the Tigers show is more than matched by their opponents' progress.

BAILEY, KING NAMED To All County Team. Tony Bailey, Princeton High School's Mr. Everything on the basketball court, and sharp shooting Bobby King have been named to the 1973 All Mercer County team chosen by the Trentonian.

Tony Bailey

Bobby King

Their selection made a prophet out of PHS coach Marv Trotman, who had said earlier, "If we don't get at least two of our guys named to the first team, they ought to lock up the judges and throw away the key."

Also named to the top five are Steinert's 6-7 Phil Brand, Mike Hofmann of Notre Dame and Hollis Copeland of Ewing. Copeland, Hofmann and King are all juniors.

Bailey led all scorers in the county with 444 points for an 18.5 average. Also tops: His best games were 31 points against Edison and 30 in the stunning upset of Camden. Trotman unequivocally label Bailey as "the best guard in Mercer County" and feels he is in the running for state honors.

Those who saw him play, saw Bailey do things with the ball and twist his body in a way that no one else has done in a PHS uniform in the past two decades. When PHS was comfortably in front, he was content to run the team; when it needed points, he went for the hoop with an iron determination that invariably resulted in a barrage of baskets.

Basketball scouts from Rutgers and Niagara have reportedly shown an interest in the 6-1 Bailey, who graduates in June.

King, who looks taller than his 6-1½ inches, is a superb outside shooter and skillful player under the boards. Quiet, unassuming, King never lost his poise or calm on the court but close observers could see him upbraid himself whenever he missed a layup or committed a turnover. He played every minute of every game he was in the only way he knew how: full tilt.

King around whom Trotman will build next year's Little Tiger team, had the second best average in the county behind Bailey — 16.4 points a game, scoring 24-25-14-23 the last four games. His high was 27 in the third game of the season with Edison.

Trotman admitted that King still had things to learn playing defense, but on offense he called him a "constant threat," and described him as the best forward in Mercer County. Trotman never tired of using such words as "tremendous" and "fantastic" in commenting on King's role after each Little Tiger win.

ZINSMEISTER, FRITZ 3RD In Regional Mat Tourney. Bob Zinsmeister, Princeton High School 148 pound wrestler, and Bill Fritz, 178 pound wrestler from Hopewell Valley High School, carried the honors for Mercer County by finishing third Saturday in the finals of the NJSIAA Regional 5 Tournament held at Hunterdon Central in Flemington.

Princeton High had four entered in the regionals but three lost in the opening round. Powerful Hunterdon Central, which had placed six men in the consolation round and six in the finals, gained the team championship as five of the latter went on to win individual championships.

Zinsmeister gained the quarter-finals when he defeated Pat Knipper (12-1-2) of New Providence, 10-3. In the semi-final round, Zinsmeister was edged, 4-3 by Rich Boyce (14-2) of Middlesex. Zinsmeister was ahead, 2-1, in the match, PHS coach Tom Murray reported, when Boyce was awarded a penalty point.

Murray said the point was awarded after Zinsmeister slammed his opponent to the mat without his own knee touching first. "It was sad," Murray said. "The whole complexion of the bout changed after that. I'm convinced Bobby would have had an excellent chance in the final."

Zinsmeister then defeated

Telephone employees aren't what they used to be.

True

False

Times have changed and telephone employees have changed with them. Today's breed looks, thinks and acts differently. And they're now doing jobs they never thought about ten years ago. That's why not all telephone operators are women, and not all installers or maintenance men are men.

In the old days, corporate concepts about devotion to duty and spirit of service were clear-cut and accepted without questions. Now our people ask questions and demand answers. They want to know why doing things one way is better than another.

They're just as committed and concerned as ever. But not out of old-fashioned corporate dedication. Rather, out of the importance of the job and the individual satisfaction that comes from helping others.

We're proud of our people. They're better educated, better trained. And they're faced with a job that is much more complex than it was years ago. We think they've done a good job of meeting that challenge. But at the phone company, being good isn't good enough. Our people know this. And they're going all out to prove it.

Dan Chinko of Hunterdon Central, 7-2, to gain third place. He finished the year with an 18-4 record, and as a junior will return next year to lead the Little Tiger mat squad.

Fritz entered the regionals undefeated and added to his string when he won an opening round, 6-1 decision. He suffered his first loss in the semifinals to Tim Hinlicky (15-2) of Bridgewater-West who gained a 14-4 decision. (Hinlicky lost in the final to undefeated Bryon Huff, 9-2).

Fritz came back with a 2-0 victory over Hunterdon Central's Pete Maddalena for third place and an overall 18-1-1 record. He is a senior.

Foltiny Falls Again. Andy Foltiny, PHS 106 pounder, who entered the NJSIAA tournament as Princeton's best prospect, failed to survive his first mach in the regionals when he was blanked, 5-0, by Mark Monroe of St. Joseph's in Metuchen. Monroe entered the match with a 14-1-1 record.

"Andy was never in the match," said Murray. "It's mystery what happened." Foltiny ended his senior year with an 18-2-1 mark.

In the 141-pound class, Keith Holcombe of PHS dropped a 6-1 opening round match to Bob Dunker (16-0-1) of Ridge. 6-1. Holcombe ended with a 10-6 record. In the 168 pound class, Princeton's Angelo Arcaro in "an excellent match" was stopped, 6-4, by North Plainfield's Dave Abbruzzese (11-2-2). Arcaro, who like Zinsmeister will be back next year, ended with a 12-5-3 record.

In all, Murray loses through graduation, Foltiny, Keith Holcombe and heavyweight Wes McClain. Richie Holcombe, 136 pounds, also will not return when he enrolls in the new West Windsor high school. "We have the nucleus of a good club coming back," Murray agreed.

Looking back over his 6-5-3 regular season record — the first winning one in several years, and the four regional contestants by PHS — the most ever — Murray allowed "It was a good year. Not bad at all. We had some disappointments but you get that with anything."

MANHATTAN VICTOR

In ICAA Track. A balanced attack in which virtually every one of its contestors did its share as could be expected won the indoor ICAA track meet Sunday for Manhattan College. More than 1,000 spectators were present for the colorful event in the Alumni Gym.

Favored Navy was never close compiling only 24 points to Manhattan's 45. A second place tie in the 35-lb. weight throw by Dave Greenwood was Princeton's best showing as the Tigers scored 5 points in the final standings.

N.Y. Giants Eye Stadium

For the second time in three years, the New York Giants are conferring with Princeton University officials about the possible use of Palmer Stadium for their home games. They will be out of Yankee Stadium during the 1973 and '74 seasons while it is being remodelled, and hope to play in the Hackensack Meadowlands by 1975.

Yale Bowl, which seats close to 70,000 (compared to the 62,000 Yankee Stadium can accommodate), is the Giants' first choice. Palmer Stadium has 47,000 permanent seats, plus space in the open end for temporary stands.

Yale is the Giants' first choice, but University and municipal officials in both New Haven and Princeton are questioning the advisability of playing host to pro games on Sunday afternoons. Problems range from turf chewed up on a rainy day to crowd and traffic congestion in the affected areas.

HOCKEY CLUB WINS

Takes First Championship. A 9-6 triumph over Beaver Dam of Long Island last week gave the Princeton Hockey Club its first championship in 11 years in the Winter Club Hockey League. Earlier, the Princeton sextet had won its division title with a 5-1 record, topping the Essex Foxes by scoring the winning goal in the final two minutes.

Against Beaver Dam which is led by Pete Bostwick, captain of the St. Nicholas Club, Princeton rallied from a two goal deficit in the early going to take a five goal lead. The attack was paced by Steve Cook and Harrison (Pony) Fraker, each of whom scored twice. Others credited with the victors' goals were John Cook, Nixon Hare, Jr., John Magenheimer, Jack Reid and Doug Williamsey.

Aubrey Huston, Jr. and Joe Wright, Jr. are the Princeton goalies. Members of the team also include Harry Rulon Miller, Larry Sanford, Tom and Joe Buday, Bob Smyth, Scott Reid, Ford Fraker and Jack Semler.

HUN CAPS BEST SEASON

With League Championship. Hun School capped its best basketball season Friday when it defeated Germantown Friends School 50-38, at Newtown, Pa. to win the championship of the Pennsylvania League. The victory was Hun's 21st against four defeats in the best record ever.

Earlier in the week, Hun led by Bill Hollowell's 20 points had defeated Penn Charter School for the Deaf 62-60 in its final regular season game. With two minutes to go, Hun led, 60-49 but the host team closed with a rush.

"We managed to hold on just barely," commented Hun coach Dave Leete.

In the championship game with Germantown, Hun trailed 14-2 in the early going and was behind 36-29 at the half. However, sparked by Kevin Tyson's 24 points — all from the floor — and the play of sophomore Tony Trau, Hun came back to outscore the Tigers in the second half by ten.

It was sweet revenge for Hun, which lost to the same team last year in the league championship game by 30 points.

Trani, who had been sidelined all week with a bad leg and hadn't practiced since Monday, sparked the Red and Black, said Leete.

Although under six feet tall, Trani with his tireless hustle on the floor is a constant, disruptive threat to the opposition with his ballhawking and steals, Leete predicts that the Princeton resident will be ranked as one of the great players at Hun before he graduates.

One Starter to Graduate. Leete can look forward to another fine season next year since only one starter Tylus —will graduate in June. Other seniors on the squad who have played their last game for Hun are John Loughlin, co-captain of the team with Hollowell, Jim Lynch and Scott Johnson.

Leete acknowledged that he did not foresee Hun's success at the start of the season. "I thought we would probably end up fighting for the League championship," he said, "but I didn't think we would win some of the games we did." Among those Leete mentioned were the victory over Hamilton, winning the Night Town Christmas Tournament and the big win over Rutgers Prep.

CONSOLATION GAME WON

By Princeton Pee Wees. Led by Bill Campbell and John Rodgers, the Princeton Pee-Wees defeated the Nassau Braves, 3-1, Sunday to become consolation winners at the 6th annual Lawrenceville Pee Wee Hockey Tournament at Lavino Rink.

Delmont captured the Erdman Trophy when Mike Rogers scored an overtime goal to send Lawrenceville to a 4-3 defeat. Delmont had previously defeated Pattstown, 8-3, and Montclair, 10-6. A 3-0 shutout of Wissahickon and a 4-2 triumph over North Jersey enabled Lawrenceville to gain a berth in the final game.

CHAMPIONSHIPS SET

For Platform Tennis Doubles. The Princeton area platform tennis 1973 men's doubles championships will be held March 24-25 at Community Park under the sponsorship of the Princeton Recreation Department.

BASKETBALL BIG THREE: The trio who led the Princeton High School girls basketball team which finished its season Tuesday against Princeton Day School are (from left) Denise Craig, coach Joyce Jones, and Gracie McEwen. Denise has scored more than 1,000 points in her high school career and owns the PHS single game mark of 51. McEwen was the second highest scorer on the team.

Any resident of the area who has playing privileges at Community Park, Baldens Brook, Pretty Brook, Stony Brook or a private court is eligible. The draw will be limited to 32 teams. Entries should be forwarded to the Recreation Department, 921-9480.

Registration deadline is March 15. There is an entry fee of $5 per team. A regular single elimination draw will be held for the championship round, and a consolation round is also planned. Complete information is available from the Recreation Department.

TENNIS CENTER OPENS

Ready for Play. The new Princeton Indoor Tennis Center on Washington Road opened its door for business Saturday. After numerous construction and legal delays, all obstacles were finally removed when a Certificate of Occupancy was issued by West Windsor Township officials on Friday afternoon. John Conroy is pro manager.

Group lessons for adults are now underway both in early morning hours and in the evening. A six-week series of indoor classes for junior players will begin in early April.

Indoor tennis tournaments will be conducted for men and women during April. Women's singles and doubles matches will be held weekdays in the afternoon. Men's singles and doubles and mixed doubles will be scheduled at night.

A Saturday morning special feature offers the indoor courts for private parties. Several have already been scheduled.

Court reservation for the 1973-74 season are now being accepted. Conroy feels that anyone who desires a preferred prime time slot should make inquiries as soon as possible.

TENNIS BALLS SOUGHT

Old Racquets, Too. The Youth Tennis Foundation of Princeton and the Princeton Community Tennis Program needs replenishment of its supply of tennis balls and old rackets.

Each year hundreds of tennis balls are required to conduct the classes. These are continually needed throughout the year as a great many are lost during the season. Old rackets are also being sough to provide for anyone needing equipment. Used rackets will be restrung if necessary.

As no child is ever turned away from enrolling because of financial or equipment need, donations of any kind to support the Program's tennis activity are always welcome.

The Youth Tennis Foundation urgently requests all tennis buffs to check their closets for old balls and rackets. Please bring them to the Annual Community Tennis Meeting to be held Saturday evening at 8 at Community Park Auditorium or anytime to the tennis program's headquarters on 71 University Place.

CANNON VS. TERRACE

In Jr. Basketball Final. Both junior division conference champions advanced to the finals of the Princeton Recreation Department basketball league by posting impressive victories over the prospective second-place clubs in the conference.

Terrace Club took advantage of a poor shooting night by Cap & Gown to win easily, 45-25. Terrace's eight-point half time lead reached 14 early in the third quarter as Cap's defenses faltered. Terrace received a fine performance from center Barry Turner, but also put all of its players in the scoring column.

Jonathan Miller and Jeff Marshall led Cap's attack with 12 and 10 points respectively. Barry Turner tallied 24, 15 in the second half.

Cannon Cub had a tougher time with an aggressive Tower team en route to a 37-27 win. Cannon jumped off to an early lead on the shooting by Patrice Van DeWalle, and it proved essential as both teams battled on equal terms from the middle of the second quarter through the conclusion of the game.

Late in the contest, center Kiernan Esposito fouled out for Tower which pretty much iced the victory for Cannon. Ron Ward led the attack for Cannon with 14 points, but it was the play of Patrice Van deWalle which made the difference for the Big Green.

STUART GIRLS WIN

Over PDS in Basketball. The Stuart Country Day School basketball team defeated the Princeton Day School girls' quintet last week, 41 to 35, after trailing at the half, 19-14. The victors' record is now 6-3.

Stuart was led by "Boop" Tabell with a dozen points; the other starters were Lisa Fischbeck, Debbie Smalls, Laura Mann and Suzanne Burchfield.

Sue Ross of PDS had the game high score of 14. PDS girls' jayvees won from Stuart, 24 to 18.

HOCKEY TRYOUT SET

At PDS Rink. The Mercer County Hockey Club, looking for players for next year, has announced a tryout Saturday at 5 at the Princeton Day School rink.

The club is made up of boys 14 to 18 in the Princeton area, as well as Trenton and Kendall Park. Any boy with experience is invited to try out. If accepted, the cost is $80 a season which covers insurance, ice time and officials.

Those interested in supporting them or playing with the club who cannot be at the tryout should call Don Gustafson, 924-1251, or Mo Kinnan, 924-0355.

The Mercer County Hockey Club was assembled at the last minute when the Princeton High School hockey team disbanded. Coaches are Dave Morrow and Gordie Jamieson. In its first season, the club has compiled a 4-6 record with two games to play. Half of the 20-man squad will be returning next year.

CAPS TIE SERIES

With Cottage Club. Cap & Gown tied its playoff series with Cottage Club, scoring a 45-27 victory last week in the senior division of the Dillon Championships. The final of the three-game series will be played Saturday morning at 11.

A balanced Cap & Gown attack was led by Tom Moore, who connected for 19 points. The victors relied on taking the ball inside, setting up Moore and Greg Jaeckel under the basket. Terry McEwen accounted for all but four of the losers' 27 points.

Cannon Wins First. In the junior playoff series, Cannon won the first game by tripping Terrace Club, 49-25.

Cannon put it all together, placing nine in the scoring column and dominating the game from the opening tapoff. Standouts for the victorious Big Green were Ron Ward, Jerry Moyer and Patrice Vandewalle.

TENNIS LEAGUES SET

For West Windsor. The West Windsor Recreation Committee, Bernt Midland chairman, has announced its evening tennis leagues for spring.

There will be two men's doubles leagues, starting April 2. The first will be held at 6, the second at 8:30. A mixed doubles league is scheduled for Sunday evenings with matches at 5, 6:30 and 8.

All matches will be played at the Township courts on the Princeton-Hightstown Road. Participation is open to all residents of West Windsor Township.

Complete details for the leagues are listed on the registration forms available at Township Hall, the West Windsor Public Library and from members of the tennis committee. Registration forms should be returned to Midland by March 23.

NEW PATIENTS AIDED

Before Entering Hospital. "It's a bit like dipping your toe into a bath to get used to the water.

"And," says Mrs. Claire Maple, R.N.," it's saving time and money for patients at The Princeton Medical Center."

Mrs. Maple is director of admissions at The Medical Center and "it" is The Center's comprehensive program of pre-admission counselling and testing. "With our program, the patient is home longer and back sooner," says Mrs. Maple.

"Entering a hospital can be a frightening experience for the patient who has not been prepared for what amounts to a major change of routine and environment," adds Mrs. Maple.

Meeting with Patients. "At The Medical Center, my staff and I meet with each patient prior to his or her admission—to discuss what will happen and when, and to explain what will ease that patient through the hospitalization."

"Patients often ask about the cost of a hospital stay," notes Mrs. Maple.

And they often seem confused by their health insurance coverage. "We can answer most cost-related questions," she says, "and we'll get answers to those we can't."

When possible, the admissions office will phone the patient-to-be at home. "We do this not only to discuss the ensuing hospital stay, but also to complete the forms required by our medical records department," says Mrs. Maple.

Inconvenience Is Minimized. "The information on these forms helps The Medical Center's staff better serve the individual patient. "Calling the patient at home helps us minimize inconvenience to that patient," Mrs. Maple continues, "you'll rarely notice a waiting line in our outer office. You'll seldom see one."

Pre-admission counselling is but half of the overall program. "While counseling helps the patient become accustomed to the hospital, pre admission testing is saving that patient time and money."

"In most cases, we find that medical testing can be conducted on an outpatient basis a few days before the scheduled admission," says Mrs. Maple. "If a patient is to be admitted for surgery, pre-admission testing is usually conducted no earlier than 72 hours before the operation."

Tests can, she observed, most often be performed at the convenience of the patient.

The Medical Center's staff regularly checks patients to be through radiologic examinations (X-ray), blood and urine specimens, gastro-intestinal series, cardiograms, gall bladder series, "and tests as varied as the illnesses patients have," says Mrs. Maple.

"We've also found that when abnormal test results occur, the patient may be treated on an outpatient basis for that disorder, then retested prior to admission to The Medical Center."

"Pre admission testing can save the patient as much as a day in the hospital," says Mrs. Maple, "and as such, is saving that person money."

Minnesota Orchestra a Bit Short of Perfection

The Minnesota Orchestra, under the direction of Stanislaw Skrowaczewski, was heard Tuesday in a concert of works by Rameau, Stravinsky and Bruckner.

Mr. Skrowaczewski began the program with his own arrangement of Rameau's Suite from Concerts en Sextour. Originally written for a small body of strings, Mr. Skrowaczewski's recasting of the work for large string orchestra hardly enhanced the music, especially in the insensitive, heavy-handed reading his forces provided. Poor Rameau! He must have thought wild oxen were stampeding over his grave.

The Stravinsky Symphony in C, a work in four movements composed in 1940, fared no better. It was in fact, the major disappointment of the evening.

When played in the spirit of its style, the piece combines a neo-baroque and classic flavor with Tchaikowskian ballet and an occasional bit of Italian operatic melodrama — all treated with superb grace and wit in Stravinsky's inimitable neo-classic musical idiom. But Mr. Skrowaczewski ploughed through the first and second movements like a kapellmeister of a fourth rate German band, the kind Berlioz must have suffered (if one reads his memoirs).

Lost Charm. The music had a stiffness about it and it clearly lacked the grace and charm Stravinsky wrote into it. The rococo ornamentation was handled rather straightforwardly and the Tchaikowskian passages were not given the animation and anxiousness one has come to expect from these pieces.

The pauses and re-attacks had virtually no bite wedging a cleavage between the seams of an unusually well built musical structure. The second movement, with its beautiful oboe aria, recalling perhaps Gluck, was given a similarly tasteless reading and by the time the third and fourth movements occurred, the work was beyond being saved. It wasn't, of course, because things became even worse.

Sloppy attacks in the horns and [illegible] and in general colorless treatments of [illegible] moves, pauses and resolutions continued right through to the static ending, which was bereft of all its expectancy. If one didn't know the symphony so well, he would think it to be a bad piece. Perhaps the audience did, for their response to the work was as lackluster as the performance, and the great tragedy is that this is a great work, undeservingly neglected in the orchestral repertoire. Finally, we get a chance to hear it "live" and, it is destroyed by an approach, more in keeping with Bruckner, and not even worthy of him.

MUSIC In Princeton

The second half of the program was devoted to Bruckner, his First symphony in D Minor. The work was subjected to at least three revisions and Mr. Skrowaczewski chose the version of 1889, (the final "original" version).

This was a wise choice, since the final version (unlike other final versions of some of the later symphonies) is by far the most rewarding. The climax to the development section in the first movement is one of the more towering moments in symphonic music and is totally absent in the previous version of 1878.

Be that as it may, Mr. Skrowaczewski fared somewhat better in his approach to Bruckner than he did with the Stravinsky. However, he neglected the entrance of the beautiful trumpet solo in favor of the Schubertian ostinato in the strings which occurs over it. As a result, the listener fails to pick up the famed trumpet tune until it's half way over. This from a piece dedicated to Wagner, whom the master from Bayreuth was later to refer to its composer as "Bruckner the trumpet."

Another crucial spot occurs in the Finale. The lovely second theme, typical of Bruckner's lighter Viennese style is heard in counterpoint with a brass chorale but the chorale was barely audible due to Mr. Skrowaczewski's penchant for waving his arms at the first violins who merely played louder and louder.

One other feature of the conductor's questionable judgment was evidenced by his tendency at climaxes to accelerate the tempo. He did this consistently during the first three movements but finally the muse caught him by the arm in the Finale and the music came to its triumphal conclusion.

JERSEY PEACE ACTIVISTS ARRESTED IN YORK, PA.

In December 1972, when United States bombers were carrying our massive bombing raids in the heavily populated Hanoi-Haiphong areas of North Vietnam, one reaction of conscience to these military acts of death and destruction arose in the form of a symbolic protest made near a bomb casing factory in York, Pennsylvania.

Early in the morning of December 18th, anti-war protestors poured concrete into a switch in a railroad track leading to the factory. This non-violent act was a symbolic attempt to stem the flow of bomb casings from the factory to Vietnam. A message placed in the wet concrete read in part,

> "We hope that you can see with us that this actian is a minar disruptian in camparison with the disruptian at life in Indachina caused by the 4,000 bambs made daily in the York, Pa. AMF factary. We have na illusians that this small act will stap or even delay the daily reign af death . . ."

It took fifteen minutes to remove the concrete, which caused no delay to the trains. Although there was no damage to the tracks and the railroad did not press charges, the State of Pennsylvania is pursuing those arrested with charges that could result in ten year jail terms and $5,000 in fines. A charge of conspiracy is also included with an additional two years in prison and $500 in fines.

With no damage to any property — with no possibility of injury to any person — with a protest against bombing being expressed as the clear right of conscience, such a harsh legal approach against sincere Americans calls upon the consciences of many of us to reassert strongly that for which our country is supposed to stand: a fair trial by law, the recognition of the right to protest in a non-violent way, and the recognition of human failings and feelings on both sides of such issues.

SOME ENCHANTED EVENING — There will be many in this Princeton Township 5-bedroom Colonial split-level with a fireplace and central air conditioning. Set amid the trees on a fully-wooded one-acre lot, it offers a rare combination of serenity and close-to-town convenience. $74,500

HAPPY TALK will radiate from the 10 rooms of this Lawrenceville townhouse. Built about 1850, it has plenty of old-fashioned charm (for instance, 2 fireplaces), but with a modern kitchen, 2 1/2 baths, and many closets for excellent functional utility. $68,000

TWIN SOLILOQUIES need not be contradictory. For the New York commuter, this Shady Brook ranch house is within easy walking distance of express bus service but is located on a quiet residential street. Features include 7 rooms, 2 baths, fireplace, basement playroom with lavatory, 2-car garage, and 3/4-acre lot. $65,000

Real Estate Happenings

by BOB SUYDAM
manager Pennington office

Amortized — today almost all mortgages written on homes are amortized over a period of years. Basically, this means that you pay both principal and interest in one monthly payment. As the years go by, the amount applied toward interest reduces on a gradual basis. The amount applied toward principal increases so that at the end of the mortgage payment, you have paid one level sum each month but your final payment shows no interest due and the total note paid.

This is one of the many things a homeowner should know. Enjoy doing business with WALTER B. HOWE INC., 1 Palmer Sq. Tel. 924 0095. (Or call Pennington 737-3301 or W. Windsor 799 1100). Homes to suit every personality and pocketbook.

HELPFUL HINT:

A garage can be a strong selling point. Be sure to keep yours neat and orderly especially when selling your house.
